

.... the only reason that is demanded of us that we have courage for the most extreme, the most singular and the most inexplicable that we may encounter. That marked has in this sense been courage has done life and death, the experiences that are called before the whole so-called "earth-world", death all those things that are so close to us, have to daily as they have been crowded out by life that the spaces with which we could have occupied them are emptied to see nothing of God."

15
00

Night & Day

Virginia King 93