Tend Memory, come and hover o'er

This album page of my dear friend;

Enrich her from thy precious store,

And happy recollection send.

If on this page she chance to gaze,

In years to come — where'er she be —

I'll see her of earlier happy days,

And bring her back one thought of me.

Who is a Christian? It is one whose life Is built on love, on kindness, and on faith Who holds his brother as his other self Who toils for justice, equity and peace
And hides no aim or purpose in his heart
That will not chord with universal good Though he be pagan, heretic or Jew That man is Christian and beloved of Christ.

Oh, hearts of mine! we should not worry so!

What we've missed of calm, we could not have, you know.

What we've had of stormy pain,
we can better meet again, if it blow.

For we know not every morrow can be sad;

So, forgetting all the sorrow we have had,

Let us fold away our fears, and through all the coming years just be glad. W. Seatz.

I have tried for a week, and vainly I seek

Words of wisdom to write to you here;
So, wishing you life free from sorrow and strife,

Not wanting in friends and good cheer,
With health — perhaps wealth —

Love better than self,

And Truth, far the best, to the end;
Since content it maintains While existence remains,

I subscribe myself, Truly, your friend.

If one looks upon the bright side,

It is sure to be the bright side;
At least that's how I've found it as I've journeyed through each day;

And it's queer how shadows vanish,

And how easy 'tis to banish From a bright side sort of nature every doleful thing away."
